

Get Involved - Research Projects

PREDICTORS

PREDICTORS: Parent Resources for Decreasing the Incidence of Change Triggered Temper Outbursts

The team at Queen's University, Belfast have an exciting research project open to caregivers of children who show temper outbursts following change. They currently have participants with Prader-Willi syndrome, Fragile X syndrome, Angelman syndrome and Autism Spectrum Disorder but are recruiting children with any diagnosis.

Their aim is to develop resources to support families in strategies to help their children manage change more effectively.

Please watch this video for more information:

Download an information sheet for the PREDICTORS study

Go Back